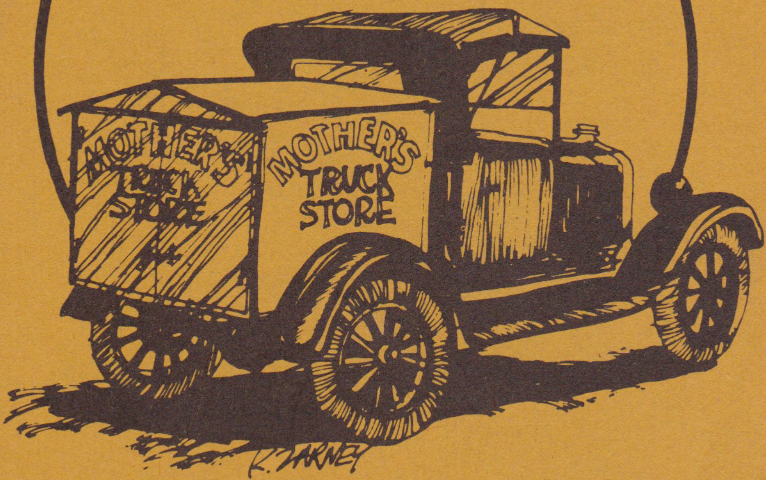
MOTHER'S TRUCK STORE CATALOGUE

...tools for living the satisfying life!

No. 3



box 75 Unionville, Ohio 44088

INTRODUCTION

Dear Folks:

We established MOTHER'S Truck Store in late 1971 to accomplish the following goals:

(1) We hope to gather into one central supply house a line of the old-time tools that are becoming increasingly difficult to otherwise locate: froes, cruppers, straight razors, bottle cappers, windmills, enamelware, broadaxes, cream separators, butter churns, wood cookstoves, etc. It will obviously be easier to live a simple alternative to the consumer life if the necessary tools for such living are readily at hand. Perhaps we'll even provide a sharp enough focus on the expanding market for "outdated" equipment to persuade manufacturers to again produce some of the quality "obsolete" items they've now discontinued . . . which, of course, will increase the options and make the living of a simpler life again that much more possible.

(2) We also intend to make readily available by mail all the do-more-with-less, latest technology products that the modern homesteader needs and wants: geodesic domes, survival blankets, backpacks, non-polluting solar stoves, etc. Perhaps, as we develop a market for "real" goods, we'll encourage industry to apply modern production methods to the fabrication of such items . . . rather than (as seems to be the case) to the construction of increasingly shoddy, overdecorated and overpowered gimmicks.

(3) Too, we aspire to create a market for "cottage industry" merchandise. Items that individuals, families, co-ops and communes–perhaps even you or your group–can manufacture at home or in your own shop: ruanas, butter molds, wooden toys, etc. It's one thing to wish well the people who yearn to break out of the rut and breathe free on their own terms . . . and quite another to help put the dollars of liberation into the pockets of those folks. We intend to help direct a certain portion of this country's gross national product into a true alternative channel of business and living. If you're already producing quality handcrafted tools or just-for-fun fancies (or know someone who is), send us a sample and copy of the appropriate discount schedule. We may be able to add the goods in question to our catalogue.

(4) Most of all, we hope to generate a profit . . . all of which will be turned over to MOTHER's Research Center which, as you know, will soon (we anticipate) be established to further wrestle with the problems of ecological living and alternative life-styles. The center is going to need a lot of dollars to tackle the work it has mapped out and we can't think of a better place for our excess funds to go.

The goods offered in our first 28-page catalogue, we admit, were a far cry from the line of merchandise we envisioned . . . but it was a start and your response has been most kind. We believe the 104-page catalogue you now hold in your hands to be a considerable improvement over our first two listings of goods and we expect to make similar gains with each new catalogue we publish.

Please do continue to let us know what you think of our undertaking and please do continue to tell us of sources of goods that you'd like to see MOTHER'S Truck Store carry.

Peace,

The Staff of MOTHER'S Truck Store

SOME HERETOFORE LITTLE KNOWN FACTS ABOUT POSTAGE

When we began MOTHER'S Truck Store, we tried to avoid charging for postage . . . it would save our customers the trouble of deciphering zone charts and postal rates to determine shipping costs, and we wouldn't have to send refunds for overpayment, bill for underpayment, etc. But here's what happened: Our "no postage charge" policy limited the number of products we could make available to our customers.

For instance, we found a beautiful, good quality, useful but heavy item which we could sell for $1.75 . . . but it would cost us $2.00 to mail it to a buyer who happened to live in Zone 8. We could raise the price of the item to cover average postage, but most folks would then think our prices too high, not considering that the price included average delivery costs to their own home all the way from Ohio. So how could we make the item available to those who could not buy it locally? Charging postage extra was the only answer.

Therefore, if you unfortunately live far from MOTHER'S and you want a bottle of root beer extract, you might find one at your local grocery for around $.39. If you do, we advise you to buy it there. For those of you who can't find root beer makings locally, it's available from us for $.39 plus whatever amount the post office charges for carrying the package to your door. Since the cost of delivery depends on where you are, please use the following Important and Indispensable Shipping Information to determine how much postage to add to your order. Overpayments will be refunded.

IMPORTANT AND INDISPENSABLE SHIPPING INFORMATION

SHIPPING WEIGHTS

Each product has a shipping weight given which is sufficient to cover mailing the item alone. If several items are ordered at once, the total weight may be less because less packaging material may be necessary to send them all together. In such cases, the overpayments will be refunded in the form of credit memos which may be used on future orders or redeemed for cash. It is to the customer's advantage to buy in quantity . . . one inexpensive item may cost more to ship than it's worth. Actual shipping weights may vary slightly until we standardize on packaging materials, but the weights given are fair.

DETERMINING POSTAGE

Find your zone number by looking up your zip code on the zone chart which may be found on the back of the order form. Only the first three digits of the zip code are used. When you have determined your zone number and the total shipping weight of your order, use the Parcel Post Rates Chart (also on the back of the order form) to find the postage charge.

WE GUARANTEE SAFE DELIVERY

MOTHER'S Truck Store does not charge customers for insurance. We insure packages when we think it is necessary, and we guarantee safe delivery of anything we ship.

UNITED PARCEL SERVICE

United Parcel Service now extends from the East Coast through the Dakotas, Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas. Packages sent by UPS are automatically insured and delivery is faster and safer than Parcel Post. STOVE DEPARTMENT

READ THIS IMPORTANT MESSAGE BEFORE ORDERING YOUR NEW RANGE OR STOVE.

A stove possesses no power in itself to force smoke up a chimney. The pipe and chimney give the draft and if they are defective the stove will not work satisfactorily, no matter how good it may be. If a stove smokes and soot adheres to the covers and sides of the flues, something is wrong with the pipe or chimney which prevents the smoke from taking its natural course up and out. When this occurs your stove will not bake, the fire will not burn and the reservoir will not heat.

To guarantee proper and satisfactory results with our or any other stove, be sure to secure proper draft while seeing that the products of combustion are not unduly cooled by the admission of cold air over the fire and into the flues. See that the pipe fits closely on the stove and in the chimney and is well jointed. See that no accident has befallen the stove in transit and that everything is in its proper place. See that you understand the dampers so that you can throw heat under the reservoir or under the oven at your pleasure. See that the front grate and linings are in place. If you will follow these simple directions, you will have no trouble in securing satisfactory operations from your wood-burning stove.

IMPORTANT NOTE:

When ordering your new wood or coal-burning stove, be sure to check the following: First your chimney should be large enough to accept the necessary smoke collar or stove pipe. If there is no existing chimney, one will have to be built or installed. Second, have a heating expert examine and certify that your chimney is in suitable condition before you hook your stove to it.

These fine cast-iron appliances are made at the Portland Stove Foundry in Maine, a leader in the manufacture of stoves for decades. Each unit, given a minimum of care, will last a lifetime.

NEW LOWER PRICES. Due to some changes in their manufacturing process, Portland Stove Foundry has substantially lowered prices on all their stoves and ranges.

SPECIAL NOTE: Prices shown are for stoves only. We will be pleased to estimate shipping charges on request.

FRANKLIN POTBELLIED STOVE

This old favorite was designed primarily as a free-standing source of room heat. But there is a burner on top to heat a pot of coffee or fix a kettle of stew. It burns coal and will heat most rooms quite well. A pipe through the wall or roof is necessary to let smoke escape. Prices quoted are for the stove only.

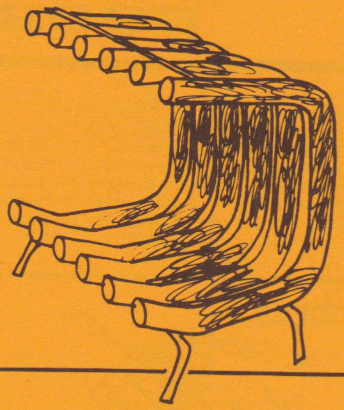
TUBULAR FIREPLACE GRATE



THERMOGRATE DOUBLES THE HEAT OUTPUT OF AN ORDINARY FIREPLACE

Here's a way to make your fireplace fuel go twice as far. This sturdy tubular grate fits into any standard-size fireplace. Heat from the fire draws cooler air into the lower openings and forces hot air out the top for twice as much circulating heat as you would normally get from the same amount of fuel. Tubular metal ribs are solidly welded to steel legs and frame. There are no moving parts, nothing to connect. Thermograte is shipped completely assembled, ready to use. Just place it on the hearth.

SD-1 Thermograte $69.50

THERMOGRATE GRILL

Auxiliary Coal-Burning Grate. For use when burning coal instead of wood. Fits right onto base of Thermograte.

SD-1G Thermograte Grill $19.95

Flames keep top of grate hotter than lower openings forcing hot air out cold air in for continuous circulation. Manufacturer guarantees the Thermograte to double heat output with same amount of fuel.

CAST-IRON COOKWARE

Cast iron is practically indestructible. Furthermore, iron cookware conducts heat evenly, does not wear off in food, and is economical. It's as much at home in the fireplace or campfire as in the kitchen. We offer a few pieces which are ground and polished inside and are indicated by the letter "A" in the catalog number . . . the others have a plain finish. All are pre-seasoned for rust protection. Use unsalted shortening to coat the inside before and after the first few times the cooking utensils are used. Thereafter, no special care is necessary . . . just avoid harsh detergents (ordinary dishwashing liquids are acceptable), and never allow cast iron to remain wet.

WOKS

Used for centuries by the Chinese to conserve cooking space, fuel and time. The rounded bottom insures even displacement of heat and when the Chinese practice of cutting food into bite-size pieces is followed, the wok cooks quickly, using a small amount of oil or liquid and preserving the natural fresh taste and nutritional value of the food. The utensil is ideal for camping and actually works best over the flame or glowing coals for which it was designed. An adaptor ring is used to support the wok over the burner of a conventional stove.

WOK COVERS

Wok covers should be one or two inches smaller than the wok they are to be used with.

CULINARY SUPPLIES

Not a new-fangled percolator with a basket, but an old-time boiler . . . fill the pot with water, throw in some coffee and heat. CD-6 Coffee Boiler $4.49

The wooden case is unfinished just like the mills of yesterday and may be left as is or finished to your taste. The complete mill measures 6" X 6" X 10" and is hopper-loaded through a slide-back cover on top. A decorative and useful kitchen appliance. Shipping weight 4 lb.

CD-5 Coffee Mill $10.50

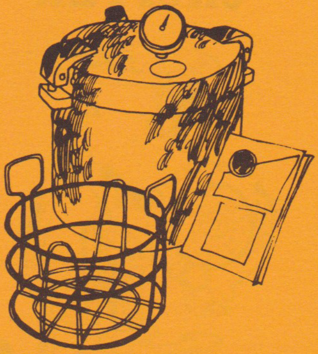
PRESSURE CANNER



The only safe method of canning low-acid foods is with a pressure cooker. Our Presto cooker-canner is constructed of aluminum alloy with heat-resistant plastic handles. Temperature and pressure are registered by the easy-to-read steam gauge. An automatic air vent seals the canner when the air has been exhausted but will release excess steam if the vent pipe becomes clogged. Another regulator—also equipped with a safety valve—controls the amount of pressure that can build up the canner. Available in two sizes. The capacities given below are for standard (screw-top) mason jars.

CD-16 Pressure Canner (Capacity 7 quart or 9 pint jars) (shipping weight 15 lbs. 8 oz) $41.00

Cooking vegetables by steaming conserves nutrients and flavor which are lost in boiling. Put a small amount of water in the steamer and heat it to simmering. Made of aluminum, the steamer measures 8" by 11" by 5" deep.

PRESSURE COOKER

Made of gleaming stainless steel for easy cleaning and even heat distribution, this utensil has an automatic air vent and a pressure regulator which can be set for 5, 10 or 15 pounds. CD-15 Pressure Cooker (6-quart capacity) (shipping weight 7 lbs. 6 oz.) $29.95

STEAM JUICER

A steam juicer can be used for preparing jams and jellies, making healthful fruit drinks or steaming vegetables. This one is made of polished aluminum with black enamel insulated handles and has a 10-quart capacity. Available with a lightweight bottom water pan (generally used on gas stoves) or a heavy-duty thick bottom (better for electric stoves).

To prepare your own fruit juices, place washed and sliced fruit in the sieve basket and put the basket in the juicer. Add a small amount of water. When the water boils, the steam opens the fruit cells releasing all the nutritive salts, vitamins and natural sugars. The juice itself is pasturized (but not boiled) and can be drawn off through the hose directly into scalded bottles or jars and sealed immediately.

CD-17 Steam Juicer (Standard) (shipping weight 7 lbs. 8 oz.) $33.95

The one-piece stand, cylinder and hopper is cast iron with a tinned finish . . . and the crank, feed screw, knife and plate are removable for easy cleaning.

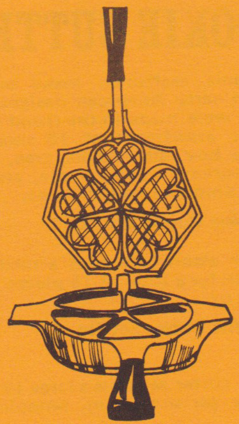
WAFFLE IRON

Utensils like this have been used for many years for making special kinds of pastries in the Old Country. Constructed of heavy, top-quality cast iron in a leading Norwegian factory, this cookie griddle has been tested in cooperation with Scandinavian housewives, and some of their recipes are included with the iron. Here's one from our own collection.



MRS. MARTINI'S BELGIUM COOKIES

Ingredients
- 1 lb. butter (or margarine)
- 2 cups granulated sugar
- 2/3 cup brown sugar
- 9 eggs, well beaten
- 4 cups flour
- 1 Tbs. vanilla flavoring

Melt butter slowly over hot water, taking care not to brown it, then add to sugar. When butter mixture cools, stir in eggs. Add flour and vanilla and mix well. Heat cookie griddle over large electric burner on medium high heat, turning to heat both sides. Spoon in some dough, close the iron and return to the burner. The first side should brown quickly (about ten seconds). Turn the griddle and cook the second side until golden brown. Trial and error will soon determine the amount of dough to use and the cooking time.

SPROUT SEEDS

Sprouts are truly a miracle food and here, in our opinion, are two of the best workers. From only a tablespoon of these mung beans or alfalfa seeds—naturally grown, of course—you can effortlessly produce enough fresh, succulent, super-nutritious "vegetables" for a one-person salad (a pound bag from us should give you four to eight pounds of food). Just follow these simple directions:

1. While you can start with an expensive store-bought sprouting container, you'll probably do as well with some odd or improvised container that you already have on hand. Just keep in mind that the ideal sprout "garden" provides a warm, dark, moist—not wet—environment for the developing seeds.

The simplest sprouter of all seems to be a large-mouthed jar. Dump in the seeds, stretch a piece of cheesecloth over the top and secure the cloth with a rubber band. A large bowl makes an ideal holder for the jar during the growth period since the container should be held top down at about a 45° angle to insure proper drainage of the sprouts.

2. Wash the seeds thoroughly, pick out any chaff or cracked hulls and check for fertility (sterile seeds float). Then soak the seeds overnight in a warm, dark place in three times their volume of water. The water should be warm (70 to 80°F) and free of chlorine and fluorine (which can sterilize the seeds' tender embryos).

3. Pour off the water the next morning, and save the healthful liquid to add to fruit juices or stock. The seeds will have doubled in size and should be rinsed carefully to avoid mold.

4. Place the seeds in your container and let the developing shoots grow in the dark for a few days. They should be rinsed with clean water every four or five hours . . . but don't lose any sleep over such a rigid schedule. Be absolutely certain that the seeds drain well after each rinsing, however, for they'll sour and rot if left in standing water.

5. In three to six days, your sprouts will again have doubled or tripled in volume and should be ready for the table. Alfalfa sprouts are about right when they're two to three inches long, but the mild-flavored mung bean may be allowed to reach a length of three or four inches before harvest.

GRIDDLE SCRAPER

GOLD MINING PAN

Panning is the most elementary form of retrieving gold from the sand and pebbles of mountain streams and early prospectors spent many a day submerged to their thighs working with one of these utensils. Fill the shallow container with gravel and water, slosh it around in a circular motion slowly washing the waste material away and—hopefully—a small amount of gold will appear in the form of small flects deposited around the edge of the pan . . . or as heavier nuggets on the bottom. We can't guarantee that you'll bring home a bag of gold, but—then again—that's what gold hunting is all about. You can always use this brass-plated steel, 12-inch-diameter pan as a conversation piece. Shipping weight 1 lb. 6 oz.

GM-1 Gold Mining Pan $2.50

PEWTER CHAMBERSTICK

Pewter or "poor man's silver" was strictly utilitarian in earlier ages and the small flaws and blisters left in finished pieces are now marks of individuality. This reproduction in solid pewter of the popular chamberstick is made in Denmark and shows the same marks as the museum original from which the mold was taken. Beautiful and practical, it's 5 inches in diameter and 5 inches high with a sliding candle raiser. Shipping weight 1 lb. 10 oz.

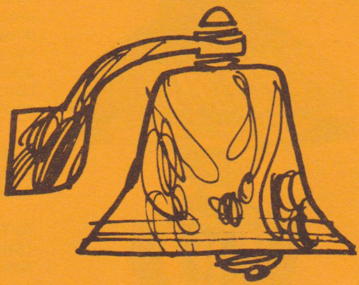
BB-2 Boatswain's Bell $29.95



COUNTRY SCHOOL BELL

Cast from solid brass and polished to a high luster, this beautiful bell has a bright, clear ring that's really a ring . . . not just a sound. Castings usually have imperfections (some folks think the flaws add individuality to a piece), and these bells are allowed one small blemish . . . but not two. The school bell is 7 inches in diameter at the bottom and measures 11 inches to the tip of its fine hardwood handle. A bit of nostalgia that combines hard-to-find quality. Shipping weight 3 lb.

BB-1 Country School Bell $25.50

TOOLS

HAMMERS

The size of a hammer is determined by the weight of the head . . . the most common sizes ranging from 10 to 20 ounces. Lighter hammers are used for driving small nails, and a heavy hammer is best for driving large nails (or ordinary nails into hard wood). For general use, a 16-ounce hammer is a good choice. A hammer may have either a bell face or a plain face (the part which strikes the nail). A bell face is slightly more convex inabling the user to drive a nail flush or slightly below the surface of the wood without leaving marks. However, the complete novice will find it easier to drive nails straight with a plain-face hammer. The curved claws are used for pulling nails or ripping woodwork apart. A pronounced curve makes the hammer better for nail-pulling, while claws with a very slight curve are better adapted for ripping. Claw hammers are designed for driving nails, wedges and dowels and can be damaged if used to drive cold chisels and punches (driving the latter two tools properly requires a machinist's hammer).

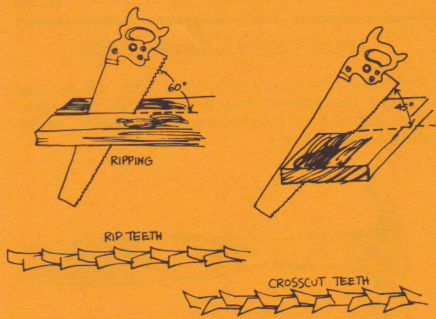
SAWS

HAND SAWS

There are two types of hand saws for wood: (1) A crosscut saw is made for cutting across the grain of the wood. (2) A rip saw is used to cut in the direction of the grain (usually lengthwise in a board). The teeth of both types are set alternately to the left and right so as to cut a slot (called a kerf) which is wider than the saw blade . . . preventing binding. A crosscut saw generally has smaller teeth, sharpened at a bevel so that the ends are pointed to cut like knives across the wood fibers. Rip saw teeth are squared off . . . more like chisels, and do not have as much set. To further lessen the problem of the blade sticking in the groove being cut, the best saws are taper-ground, making the blade thinner at the back (the un-toothed edge). The number of tooth points per inch determines the coarseness or fineness of a saw. Blades having more (8 to 12) teeth to the inch cut smoothly and accurately . . . but more slowly than those with fewer, larger teeth. For general work, a crosscut saw with 8 points per inch is a good choice. Rip saws with 5 or 6 points to the inch are the most widely used.



A good saw for the price, the special steel blade is taper-ground and polished, and the teeth are full bevel-filed. The handle is carved hardwood, fitted to the 26-inch blade by 5 non-rust nickle screws. Shipping weight 2 lb. 2 oz.

HW-40 Hand Saw 8 crosscut points per inch. $9.45

HW-41 Hand Saw 10 crosscut points per inch. $9.45

HW-42 Hand Saw 5½ rip points per inch. $9.99

KEYHOLE SAW

The keyhole saw—with its narrow, tapered blade—is designed for cutting curves and enlarging holes (which are first started with a drill) in wood. The blade is removable and may be reversed for sawing upward. Blade lengths vary from 10 to 16 inches (the larger sizes are called compass saws), but —for general use—a 12-inch blade will suffice. This one is taper-ground to a thin back, has 10 points per inch, and is fitted to a hardwood handle by a nickle-plated bolt and wing nut. Shipping weight 14 oz.

HW-43 Keyhole Saw $3.75

CROSS CUT SAW

Made of high grade, tool steel and ground so that the toothed edge is of uniform thickness, but the back is thick at the ends and thin in the center . . . giving stiffness to the saw while preventing binding. A minimum of set assures free running, easy cutting. The blade is five feet long and 5½ inches wide at the center. Shipping weight 5 lb. 8 oz.

HW-46 Cross Cut Saw $22.25

PLIERS

COMBINATION PLIERS

Combination pliers can be used in many ways for gripping small rods and pipes as well as objects with flat surfaces . . . and even for cutting wire. A slip joint further increases the versality of this tool by permitting the jaws to be opened wider to grip larger objects. Crescent pliers are forged from steel, hardened and oil tempered, then chrome-plated to prevent rust.

OILSTONES

GENUINE ARKANSAS OILSTONES

There are two types of oilstones: (1) artificial stones, such as carborundum and aloxite, which are made in electric furnaces and (2) natural oilstones crafted from a rare substance known as "novaculite", a silica deposit found only in the Ouachita Mountains in Arkansas, Oklahoma and Texas. The stone is believed to have been formed nearly 400 million years ago and was first discovered by the American Indians whose early efforts to quarry and make arrowheads from the hard silica date back thousands of years. Present mining efforts started in the early 1800's. The superior honing and abrasive qualities of novaculite are equaled only by diamonds (which are used to cut the whetstones).

Sharpening stones are kept wet with oil to prevent the pores from becoming clogged with particles of metal . . . a clogged stone loses much of its cutting ability. A very light machine oil should be used, and stones should be washed and dried before storing. An old oilstone can be restored by soaking in an oil solvent or heating in the oven and wiping clean while still hot. Natural oilstones are expensive, but with proper care they will last a lifetime.

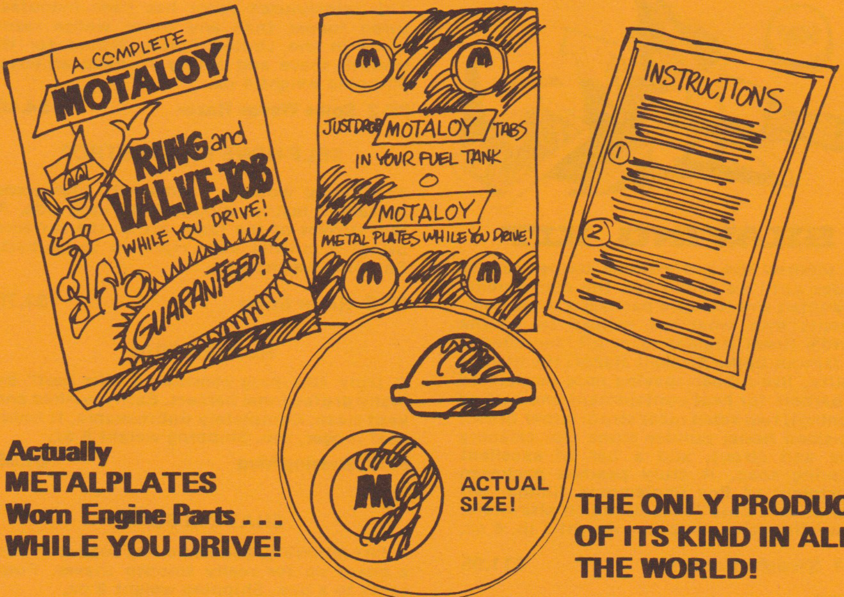
MOTALOY



Actually METALPLATES Worn Engine Parts . . . WHILE YOU DRIVE!

THE ONLY PRODUCT OF ITS KIND IN ALL THE WORLD!

Of all the fuel additives and engine accessories being touted to today's motorists, we've found only one—MOTALOY—that really works.

MOTALOY is a compounded alloy of nine antifriction metals and elements. It's sold in sets of four pellets that are simply dropped—all at once—into the fuel tank of any car, tractor or truck gasoline engine. As the pellets slide around in the tank, microscopic colloidal particles of MOTALOY become suspended in the gasoline and are carried to the vehicle's engine where they're activated by the flash fire of combustion. The activated MOTALOY then works as a catalyst that dissolves the carbon accumulations in the engine's combustion chamber and allows it to pass out the power plant's exhaust.

As the internal chambers and parts of a MOTALOY-treated engine are cleansed, the special alloys in the MOTALOY formulation also begin to plate the working surfaces of the piston rings, cylinder walls, valve seats and other worn parts of the power plant's combustion chamber. This combined cleansing-plating action gradually raises the engine's compression and reduces fuel and oil consumption. Obviously this treatment will not repair major oil leaks or mechanical difficulties . . . but it will give an internal combustion engine a "ring and valve job" inexpensively and easily while the power plant is operating.

MOTALOY'S benefits are most dramatically evident when the pellets are dropped in the fuel tank of the average old "clunker" used car. Within 500 to 1,000 miles, the automobile will begin to run quieter, burn less gasoline and oil, exhibit more "pep" and—in general—feel "five years younger". New cars (which are not as worn or carboned up) will demonstrate the same kind of improvement on a lesser scale after being driven only 200-300 miles with the tablets. In either case, a single MOTALOY treatment is good for up to 50,000 miles.

Yes, but does it really work? Well, we recently had a 1956 Studebaker Lark that was burning oil and so sluggish that we had to shift down to second to get up one particular fairly gentle (but long) hill. One thousand miles after adding the MOTALOY pellets to the car's gas tank, that little Lark was smoking noticeably less and we were breezing right up the same hill in high gear. We'd say that MOTALOY works just fine.

If you've got a tractor, truck or automobile suffering from normal wear (or you want to protect a brand new vehicle from same), you might order out a MOTALOY treatment and see for yourself. It's guaranteed . . . and just might save you a $100 valve and ring job.

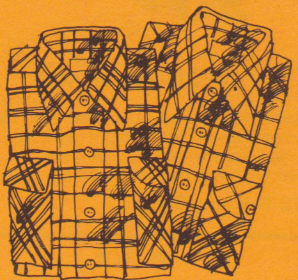
PENDLETON SHIRTS

Noted for quality, Pendleton shirts are just about as well made as a shirt can be . . . and they wear even better. The fabric is the very best virgin wool, tightly woven and shrunk (so it's washable) to a smooth, even texture. This superior cloth is then made into a finely tailored shirt which—on the practical side—is sturdy without looking like a work shirt and—from the fashionable point of view—is distinctive without being dolled-up. We chose the straight-around-the-bottom style because it looks great, even (or especially) if you don't wear it tucked in. We can't be sure of getting any particular color and pattern, but we usually have the following in stock: (1) red plaid (with black or gray), (2) blue plaid (with black), (3) blue and green plaid, (4) brown plaid (with gold or black), and we occasionally get a few solid colors.



You'd best list several choices in order of preference . . . and cross your fingers. Of course, we'll notify you first if we don't have any of your color choices and you can always return any unworn shirt you don't like. Sizes are small, medium, large and extra large. Shipping weight 1 lb. 8 oz.

VERMONT WOODEN TOYS

No lights, no batteries, no extra gimmicks . . . just wood and a child's imagination. That's what the Vermont Wooden Toy Company's playthings are all about. Each of the child-powered toys turned out by the skilled craftsmen who work in an old Mad River Valley high school building is made of select wood (mainly pine, maple and birch) with careful attention to the eye appeal of grain patterns. The well-made parts are hand assembled and held together with wooden pegs and dowels. There's not a nail, screw, staple or piece of plastic to be found in these ultra-sturdy toys. Nor is there much paint or artificial finish on them because the Vermont craftsmen want their toys to taste as good as they work and look. And they work and look pretty darned good.

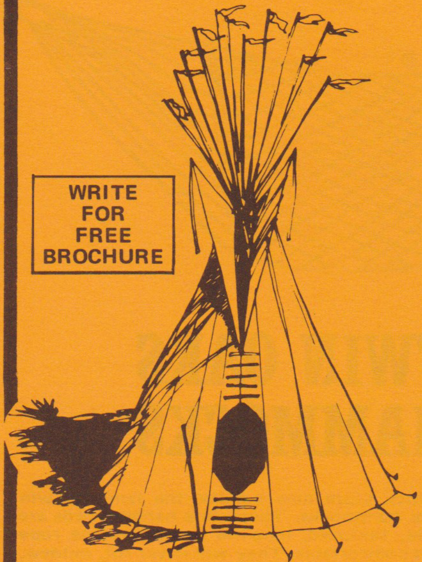
THE NOMADICS TIPI



WRITE FOR FREE BROCHURE

There are several brands of commercially-manufactured tipis available in the world but the very finest—bar none—is the tipi lovingly handcrafted by a group of young people who actually LIVE in the tents on the coast of Oregon.

The NOMADICS product is a rare and note-worthy blend of old and new. It's based on the exquisitely beautiful traditional Sioux pattern to which has been added the larger and more efficient Cheyenne smoke flap extensions and a redesigned and improved door flap and liner of NOMADICS' own design.

Only the finest cloth—double fill cotton canvas, marine-treated canvas and Acrilon—is used in the manufacture of these tents and all stitching is done with industrial weight dacron thread which is eight times stronger than cotton thread and positively will not rot. Every stitch is a lock or zig-zag stitch, too, and simply will not unravel if a thread is ever accidently pulled.

All points of stress on the NOMADICS tipi are heavily reinforced and the pinning holes down the front of the tent are laboriously "button hole" stitched instead of being finished with the much less expensive (and vastly inferior) grommets that other tipi manufacturers use. The smoke flaps, peg loops, lift pole flap and other points of stress are strengthened with rows of extra stitching and a two-inch band of nylon reinforcement is securely sewed around the entire bottom of every NOMADICS tent to prevent the stretching and loss of shape so common in every other boughten tipi.

We have carefully compared the NOMADICS tipi to other tipis on the market and are convinced that the materials, improvements in design, workmanship and careful attention to detail exhibited in this product truly puts it in a class by itself. It is indeed astonishing, then, to find that the NOMADICS tipi costs no more (and in several cases, less) than competing brands. An unrivaled value for the money.

READ THIS SPECIAL NOTE:

A cover stretched over poles is no more comfortable than a white man's tent during extremes of weather. In very cold and some very hot weather a liner is absolutely essential for maintaining comfortable living conditions in a tipi. It is also important that the liner be marine treated canvas if the tipi will be used heavily for winter living.

Ten pages of set-up instructions are included with each tipi.

Prices listed here DO NOT include shipping costs from Oregon to you.
Poles are not included.

OCATE POLYFOAM SLEEPING BAG

	Length	Weight	Shipping Wt.	Price

SR-22	6'2"	4 lb. 4 oz.	5 lb.	55.00
SR-23	6'8"	4 lb. 8 oz.	5 lb. 12 oz.	59.60

The Ocate Polyfoam Sleeping Bag combines the warmth and lightness of down with the durability and economy of modern synthetics. Made of a special formula polyurethane foam with a ripstop nylon cover and a nylon liner, the bag is comfortable at room temperature down to about zero degrees . . . sub-zero if normal outdoor clothing is worn into the bag. Unlike down or fiberfill, polyfoam provides warmth even when wet. Moisture is warmed by body heat and then expelled through the breathable foam and nylon cover. Polyfoam is lightweight, compresses into a stuff sack of appropriate size for backpacking and its firmness makes an additional sleeping pad unnecessary. The nylon cover is windproof, deflects water and is difficult to tear. Even if the covering is torn, however, the solid foam core stays intact . . . no insulation leaks out. The bag is washable and can be cleaned easily by squeezing it out in a bathtub. We're generally suspicious of plastic but this use of the material seems to work out just fine.

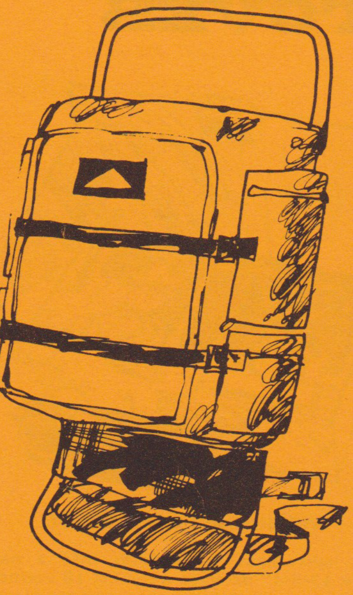
Our backpacks, made by Jan Sport, have been awarded an Alcoa Design Award for excellence in design based on the principle of dynamic flexibility. It is easier to carry a load which moves and flexes with the body (a dynamic load) than one that is rigid (a static burden). Our pack frames are pinned instead of welded and they twist diagonally and flex forward as the bearer moves over various terrains . . . making a load more comfortable to carry. What's more, these pack frames were found to be strongest in a test against 12 other makes.



CASCADE PACK

Designed for foul weather and wilderness conditions, the Cascade derives its name from the Pacific Northwest mountains where it was tested. An opening rear panel and a unique two-way zipper system allow access to any object in the packbag without removal of any other item. You can lay it out flat in a small, tow-man tent and, with the pockets and panel open, see anything in the pack. The bag is 15" x 20" x 10" deep with three side pockets, and a total capacity of 3335 cubic inches. The full-access Cascade, weighing only 3 pounds, is a significant development in backpacking equipment. Shipping weight 4 lb. 8 oz.

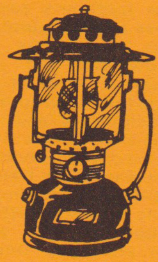
LANTERNS



COLEMAN FLOODLIGHT

The Floodlight model features a large 8-3/4-inch ventilator. This ventilator reflects light down to eliminate the shadow that would normally be underneath the lamp when hanging and the upward glare when the lantern is placed on the ground or a low table. Made to the same specifications as the single mantle version, this model has two mantles and burns 10 to 12 hours on a filling of Coleman fuel or naphtha gas. Measuring 13-7/8 inches high with a 6-inch base diameter, the Floodlight has a green baked-enamel finish. Shipping weight 6 lb. 8 oz.

CL-2	Coleman Floodlight	$25.90
CL-2G	Replacement Globe. Shipping weight 1 lb. 4 oz.	$2.00
CL-1M	Replacement Mantles (2). Shipping weight 4 oz.	$.45

SINGLE MANTLE LANTERN

Compact and lightweight, Coleman's single mantle lantern burns 8 to 10 hours on one filling of Coleman fuel or naphtha gasoline. Wind-, storm- and bug-proof, this model has a rust-resistant, red baked-enamel finish and a copper-brazed steel front. The lantern is 11-5/8 inches high with a base diameter of 5-1/8 inches. Comes complete with one mantle. Shipping weight 4 lb. 8 oz.

CL-1	Single Mantle Coleman Lantern	$21.80

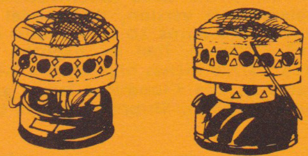
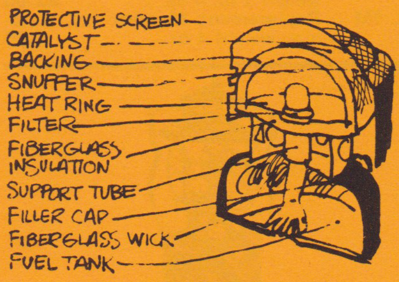
CAMP STOVES

The time of the traditional campfire—with its leaping flames and the pungent smell of wood smoke—is passing. As our natural wood supply dwindles and our growing population takes a renewed interest in camping, we are fast developing too many potential wood-choppers and fire-builders for our wilderness environment to support. Even the collecting of dead wood is damaging, because it means leaving the trails, trampling delicate vegetation and robbing the forests of fertile organic matter. Furthermore, the smoke from open fires is a source of considerable air pollution. One alternative is to use a clean-burning fuel for our outdoor heat and cooking requirements, and to carry it with us. Naphtha and white gasolines burn clean, do not require pressurized, throwaway containers and are safe and easy to use when the proper precautions are followed.





CATALYTIC HEATERS

Coleman's platinum catalyst burner delivers safe, flameless catalytic heat combustion at a constant 5,000 BTU per hour. One filling (3 quarts) of stove and lantern fuel or white gas produces 18 hours of heat. Height: 11-1/2 inches. Shipping weight 8 lb. 8 oz.

CP-7 Catalytic Heater $39.20

CP-8 Adjustable Catalytic Heater. As above except with temperature control (3,000 to 5,000 BTU). $44.10

CP-9 Large Adjustable Catalytic Heater. 5-quart fuel capacity, 5,000 to 8,000 BTU. Shipping weight 14 lb. $62.90

TWO-BURNER CAMP STOVE

This lightweight stove folds into a neat 22" x 13-3/4" package weighing 18 pounds. The burners are stainless steel and are placed far enough apart (11 inches on center) to allow you to place a large pot or frying pan on both units at once. Holding 3-1/2 pints of Coleman fuel or naphtha gasoline, the fuel tank is nickel-plated and copper-brazed for corrosion resistance. The folding wind baffles and steel case are finished in green baked enamel. Shipping weight 19 lb.

CP-15 Two-Burner Camp Stove $32.40

ONE-BURNER CAMP STOVE

Said to boil a pint of water in 2-1/4 minutes, the single-burner stove is ideal for a fast meal, a cup of coffee or as a companion burner to a larger stove. The stainless steel burner lights instantly and burns Coleman fuel or naphtha gasoline. Two-pint fuel capacity. The unit measures 7" x 7". Shipping weight 4 lb.

CP-16 One-Burner Camp Stove $16.00

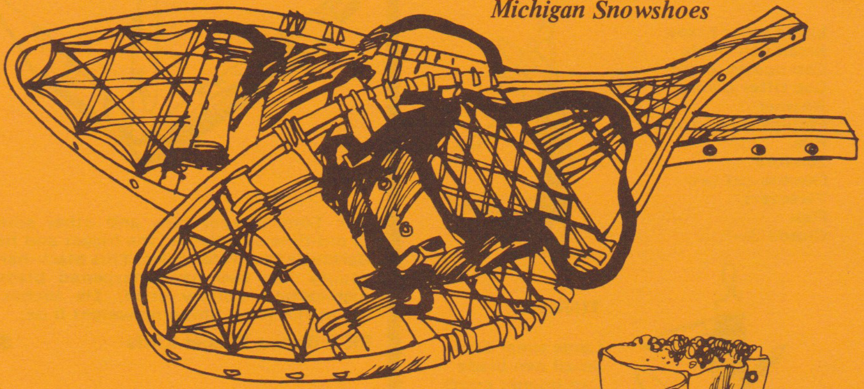
Snowshoes were invented by the North American Indians to allow them to travel more easily over deep snow. Designed for slow, sure travel, snowshoes offer non-sink, non-skid footing and are better suited than skis for up-and-down travel over rough and obstructed terrain. Ash frames and rawhide webbing are the standard materials for quality snowshoes. Ours are made by Indians . . . you can't get any more traditional than that.

SNOWSHOES

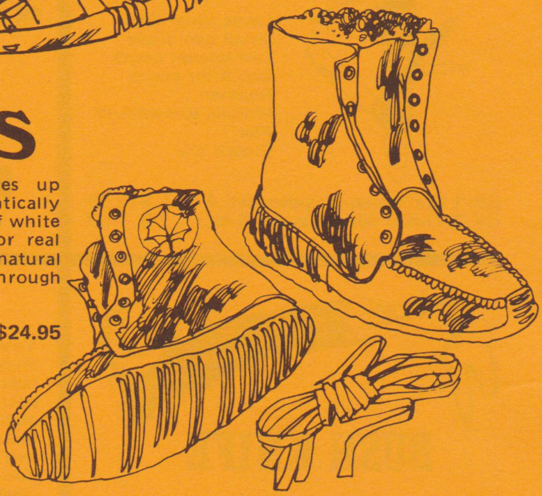


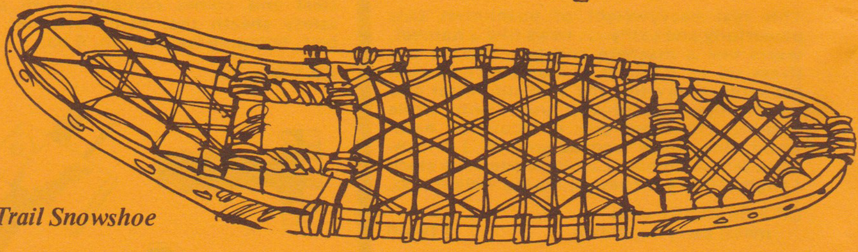
Michigan Snowshoes

MUKLUKS

Just the name "mukluks" conjures up visions of Eskimos and igloos. Authentically styled, these boots are constructed of white pearl leather and are fleece-lined for real warmth. The soles are made of natural rubber for traction. Whole sizes 7 through 12. Shipping weight 2 lb. 12 oz.

SS-6 Mukluks $24.95





Trail Snowshoe

MICHIGAN SNOWSHOES

The Michigan model was designed to offer a compromise between the old Bearpaw and the much slimmer and longer cross-country snowshoes. Built for versatility, it is more efficient for cross-country travel over smooth terrain but less suitable for use in brush. Same quality construction as the Trail model, this one is available in four standard sizes. Harness not included.

SS-2	Michigan Snowshoe. 10" x 33", up to 100 lb. Shipping weight 2 lb. 8 oz.	$20.50
SS-3	Michigan Snowshoe. 12" x 42", up to 140 lb. Shipping weight 4 lb. 8 oz.	$27.50

SS-5	Michigan Snowshoe. 16" x 42", up to 220 lb. Shipping weight 5 lb. 4 oz.	$31.00

HARNESS

Some people prefer to make their own harness, but this heavy-duty, oil-tanned leather model with roller buckles is simple, fast and easy to use. The harness is attached to the snowshoe rigging just forward of the balance point so that the tail of the snowshoe drops when the foot is raised, keeping the toe of the boot or mukluk pressed into the toepiece of the rigging. Harness fits all sizes. Shipping weight 1 lb. 2 oz.

SS-5 Snowshoe Harness $6.65

TRAIL SNOWSHOES

Early trappers found that very short, very wide snowshoes—called Bearpaws—were best for maneuvering through thick brush. This Trail model design retains the Bearpaw's easy handling qualities in tight quarters, but is made just a little more narrow and compact for improved efficiency during cross-country travel. The frame is white mountain ash measuring 10" x 36" with tough rawhide lacing and three coats of varnish. Will support up to 220 pounds. Harness not included. Shipping weight 4 lb. 10 oz.

SS-1 Trail Snowshoes $34.00

SADDLE BAGS

HE-1 Canvas Saddlebags $8.50

KNAPSACK

ERRORS—we make them, so does everyone, and we will cheerfully correct them if you will write to us. If you can, try to write us good-naturedly, but if you cannot, then write us anyway. Do not let an error pass unnoticed. We want to make right any mistake that may occur.

RIDING EQUIPMENT

MOTHER'S Truck Store will eventually carry a complete line of riding, driving and work-horse equipment. We are beginning our tack department with a selection of low-cost, good-quality riding gear suitable for the pleasure rider and the growing number of people using the horse for simple transportation. We do not (yet) carry the specialized, expensive-quality tack necessary to supply the professional horseman or the hard-riding competitor. We hope, at present, to be of most help to the new horse-owner faced with an astounding variety of equipment . . . all with little or no explanation as to how a certain item suits a particular need.

ENGLISH SADDLES

There are basically two kinds of Engligh saddles: (1) park and (2) forward seat—or hunt—saddles.

The park saddle is a good choice for general pleasure riding, allowing the rider to sit erect with stirrups adjusted to a comfortable length. Park saddles are used most often on horses with a rather high head carriage (Arabians, Morgans, American Saddle Horses) whose center of gravity is further back than that of horses which carry their heads low. Lightly padded, the park saddle has a minimum of leather between horse and rider to allow closer contact and feel.

Forward seat saddles (hunt-type) are designed for jumping and fast cross-country riding. A higher cantle (the back of the saddle) keeps the rider's weight forward, and heavy padding in front of the knees helps to maintain stability and proper leg position over jumps and rough country. Forward seat saddles are used on Thoroughbreds, cross-bred hunter types and any horse used for jumping.

The size of a saddle is determined by measuring from front to back across the top (not following the curve of the seat), and sizes range from 15 to 22 inches. In general, 18 to 20-inch sizes will fit Thoroughbreds and Saddlebreds while shorter saddles are better for Arabians, Morgans and Quarter Horses. The saddle should also fit the rider . . . especially forward seat saddles. There is no sure way to determine the best size saddle for a particular horse and/or rider without trying it out, although an educated guess by an experienced horseman is a great help.

English saddles are priced without fittings (girth, stirrups and stirrup leathers) which are chosen separately to suit the needs of the buyer.

PARK SADDLE

Made by Barnsby—a name famous for quality of materials and workmanship—this park saddle features a square cantle and a cutback head (prevents the front of the saddle from rubbing a horse with high, narrow withers). Specify 17-, 18- or 18-1/2 inch seat. Shipping weight 18 lb.

RE-1 Barnsby Park Saddle. Less fittings. $164.50

Barnsby Park Saddle

ARGENTINE PARK SADDLE

Saddles made in Argentina are very inexpensive. Although the workmanship does not approach the quality found in equipment of English, German, Italian and French manufacture, Argentine saddles are serviceable (and comfortable after much oiling and a long breaking-in period). Riders who have not already become accustomed to a really good saddle are usually quite satisfied with the Argentine models. Available in 17-, 18- and 19-inch sizes. Shipping weight 17 lb.

RE-2 Argentine Park Saddle. Less fittings. $58.00

RE-2P As above in pony sizes 15- and 16-inch. $58.00

Argentine Park Saddle

ARGENTINE FORWARD SEAT SADDLE

RE-4P As above in pony size 16. $75.80

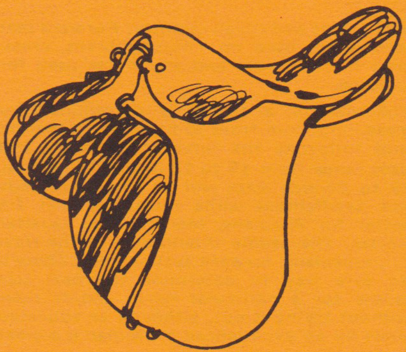
Argentine Forward Seat Saddle



FORWARD SEAT SADDLE

Made in England of top-quality Havana brown leather, this saddle is built on a wide tree to fit a broad-shouldered horse comfortably. Padded knee rolls have suede patches for a non-slip grip (when matched with the suede patches on riding britches). Sizes 17, 17-1/2 and 18. Shipping weight 20 lb.

RE-3 Forward Seat Saddle. Less fittings. $218.25
RE-3P As above in pony size 15. $218.25

LEATHER ELASTICIZED GIRTH

The soft folded leather is cut away at the horse's elbows to prevent chafing . . . especially good for large-barreled horses. Strong elastic inserts on one end allow the girth to expand while maintaining a close fit when jumping. While the less expensive model is adequate for general use, a heavy rider who intends to jump might prefer the added safety of the best leather and workmanship. Lengths from 40 to 52 inches. Shipping weight 5 lb.

RE-21 Leather Elasticized Girth $24.40
RE-22 As above except made in Japan* $12.25

*Many riding goods—bridles, girths, stirrups, etc.—are now being manufactured in Japan to English specifications. The workmanship looks good (not perfect) and the leather is probably not as strong (a different tanning process is used) as English leather. However, the Japanese-made equipment is easy on the budget and meets the demands of many riders.

RE-41 Bareback Pad. Less fittings. $11.65
RE-41P Pony Size Bareback Pad. Less fittings. $10.75

NOTE: We recommend safety stirrups for use with bareback pads because the stirrup leathers are fastened to dees and will not slip off if the rider falls and catches a foot in the stirrup iron. (The stirrup leathers on English saddles are attached to safety bars and will slip off easily when pulled hard toward the rear of the horse. Western saddles do not have this safety feature, and accidents resulting in the rider being dragged do happen occasionally with western gear.)

SAFETY STIRRUPS

Recommended for use with bareback pads, the heavy rubber band releases the foot in case of accident. Width is 4-1/8 inches. Shipping weight 1 lb.

RE-34 Safety Stirrups $12.40

Here's a word about Mother's new sister publication...

During the past couple of years, an awful lot of folks have decided to kick over the traces, grab life in both hands and begin spending their best years living exactly the way they please. Some set up communes, others establish family "homesteads" where they grow most of their own food, a good number "drop out" of the rat race to found home businesses . . . a few even build 40-foot schooners and sail off for the South Seas.

Maybe one of these options sounds good to you, maybe not . . . but no matter what your particular dream of the Good Life might be, it's a pretty safe bet you're going to find it covered in LIFESTYLE!

And—get this—LIFESTYLE! also has the CONTACTS. Yep. Every issue carries several hundred listings of folks just like you who're looking for others with common interests. If you're anxious to start a food co-op, buy land in Costa Rica, emigrate to Australia, set up a free school . . . or whatever, it's a good bet that CONTACT can put you in touch with exactly the people you're looking for. And if you don't find the right party already listed . . . well, it'll only cost you 50¢ to run your own CONTACT listing.

Any way you look at it, then, LIFESTYLE! is required reading if you've already started—or are even planning—to bust out of the mold and begin living life on your own terms. Order out a subscription and give LIFESTYLE! a try. If you don't like it, we'll gladly refund your money . . . but we sincerely doubt that we'll have to!

LIFESTYLE! is published six times a year
One year/$6.00 ($8.00 outside U.S. and Canada)
Two years/$11.00 ($15.00 outside U.S. and Canada)
Three years/$16.00 ($22.00 outside U.S. and Canada)
Lifetime subscription/$120.00 ($150.00 outside U.S. and Canada)

A GOOD LIFE...A GOOD LIVING!

The Mother Earth News Tells You How!

But what is MOTHER anyway: a magazine or a book? Well, neither . . . and both. She's more of a serialized survival manual for the future and packed with articles that really tell you how. How to find and finance low-cost land, for instance, and set up your own little family homestead. How to raise a garden naturally, without poisons or pesticides. How to can, preserve and freeze your own fruits, vegetables and fresh meats. How to raise goats, chickens, bees, pigs, geese, ducks, sheep and other homestead animals. How to start your own home business, recycle "junk" into useful items and—in general—live better for less while doing exactly what you want to do.

If you're trying to put the rat race behind you, breathe free and build a better, richer more satisfying life for yourself, your family or your tribe . . . you'll find MOTHER to be required reading. Order out a subscription and see for yourself. There's absolutely no risk. If you don't love MOTHER, just tell her so . . . and she'll send you your money back!

YES! Send MOTHER to me.
